

Recommissioning Trade Partner Directory

Recommissioning is the process of reviewing existing equipment and systems within a building to ensure that they are working as efficiently as possible and operating as intended. If you're interested in improving the efficiency of your existing building operations through low- or no-cost improvements, contact one of the Recommissioning trade partners listed below or another trade partner of your choice. The trade partners listed below have successfully completed a Recommissioning study and/or project in the past year. For help selecting a trade partner, please see our Recommissioning Guidebook.

PLEASE NOTE: The list below does not constitute an endorsement of these trade partners, nor does it certify or guarantee their work. Recommissioning trade partners are not employees or agents of Xcel Energy. All Recommissioning studies require preapproval, and equipment and services recommended in a Recommissioning study must meet our criteria to qualify for program incentives.
